The Immaculate Conception

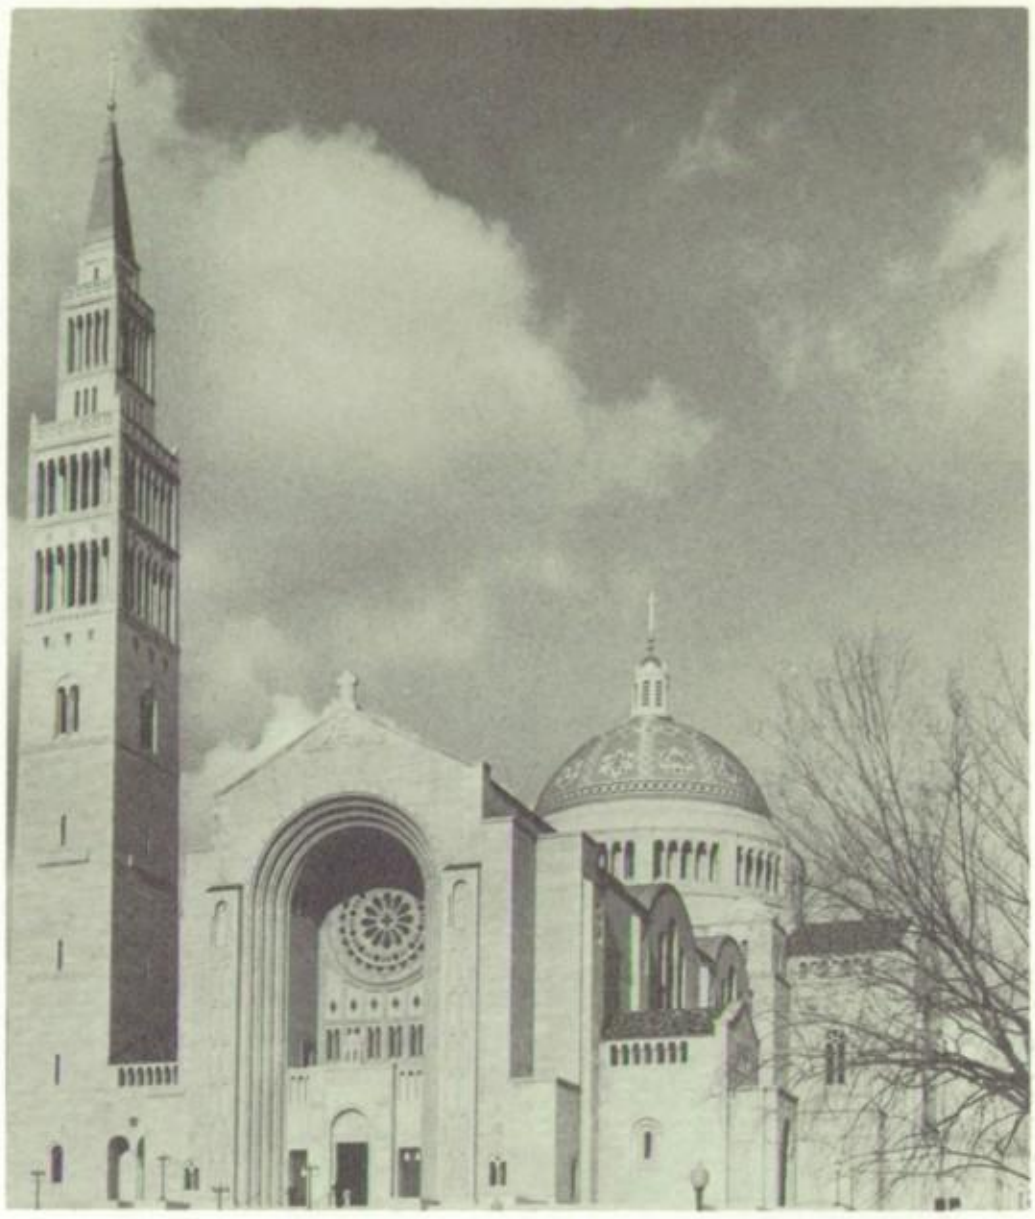
This mosaic reproduction of Murillo's world famous painting, "The Immaculate Conception," came to the shrine as a gfit from Pope Benedict XV, and now occupies a prominent place in the Crypt Church of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception in Washington, D.C. Best available artists were sent to the Prado Museum in Madrid to copy the Murillo masterpiece. The copy was then reproduced in the Vatican mosaic works. Pope Benedict having died before the work was completed, his successor, Pope Pius XI directed the completion of this work.

In 1846 a group of American bishops dedicated the United States of America to the Immaculate Conception of Mary. By this great and noble deed, the infant land of America was presented to Mary, our Queen and Heavenly Mother. At this time there were but a few organized states. Today, under the protective guidance of Our Lady, there are fifty states.

The advancement of our country brings with it the advancement of society. The United States is not only expanding in size but also in its demands on its future citizens to possess deeper knowledge and flawless characters. Can we, the class of 1960, ever meet this ever-increasing challenge? With Mary as our inspiration, we as Catholic citizens of America can accept this challenge with unflinching courage.

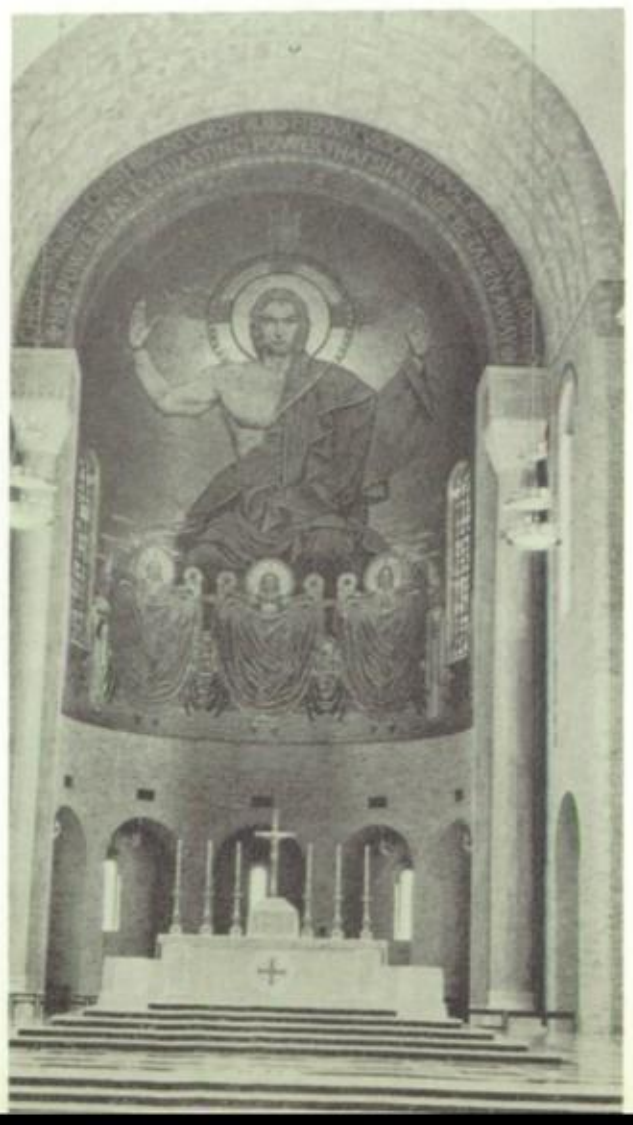
Catholic Americans will never fully realize and appreciate the blessings which have been showered on our country through Our Lady's most powerful intercession. Because she has guided and protected our country in many perilous hours, we have given testimonial of our recognition of our patroness's help in the erection of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception in Washington, D. C. It is appropriate that this Shrine be located in the nation's capital because it symbolizes the important role which religion plays in the democratic form of government.

We, the seniors of the class of 1960, and future citizens of America, dedicate this annual to the patroness of our beloved country, The Immaculate Conception.



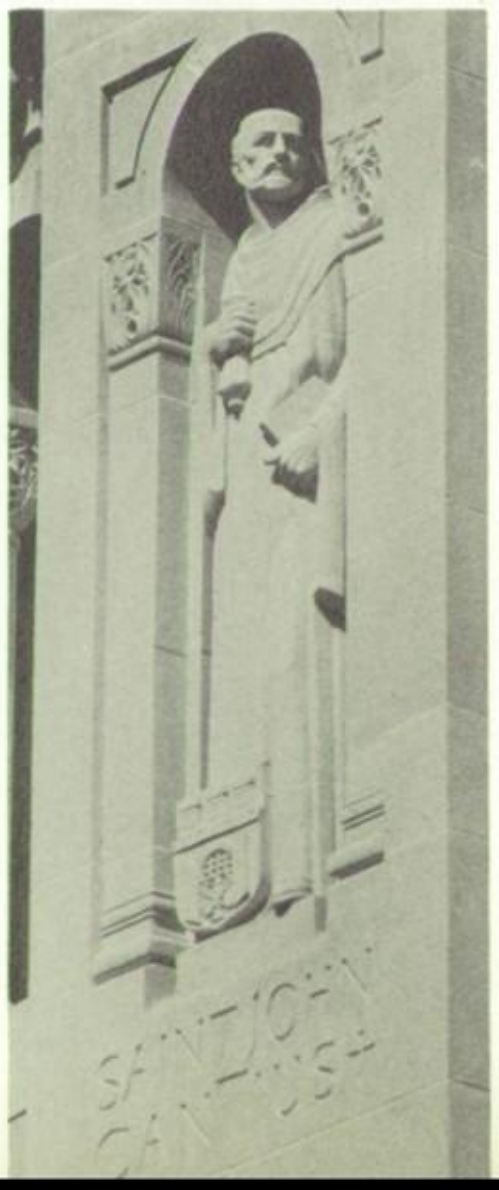
This massive structure, the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, stands as a testimonial of Christian Americans' tribute to their Patroness, Mary. The tower at the left was built on a million-dollar donation from the Knights of Columbus and is called the Knights' Tower.

National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception



This huge mosaic, largest single mosaic in the world, covers the expanse of the sanctuary wall in the upper north apse of the Crypt Church of the Shrine. It depicts Christ, the Almighty King, or "Pantocrator," the Greek word for this title.

One of the saints represented at the Shrine is St. John Cantius, patron of our school.



Foreword

"Enter anew, cultivate and rejoice that you have entered, for you are now one among friends."

How typical of the beginning of four years of maturing into young men and women of the future. Young freshmen we were then, quiet, timid, ready to please; but soon friends were had by all, those in our own ranks and those above us. Wonderful and understanding were the faculty members, ever ready to help us by using their developed minds to assist us in cultivating that seed of knowledge bestowed upon us by our Almighty Creator—a knowledge to lead us on to an honest, upright and respectable future.

Later, as time goes by, we begin to become one, faculty and student, striving for that important day, Graduation. At that time we will realize fully the result of four years of culture. We walk out of the church clutching our reward, a coveted diploma. What will be our thoughts? We shed a few tears for teachers and friends we leave behind us, but with us we carry memories, to forever remind us of the four most pleasurable and gratifying years of our life.

As we proceed in life, we remember our Patroness, Mary, and how we ran to her for help still realizing how much we need her. Times will grow more difficult—then we will relive our school years and remember her part as "our life, our sweetness, and our hope".

Administration

Our Divine Redeemer and His Holy Mother have given us His priests and His sisters to become our councilors through our four years of high-school life. Through them, we overcame: our timidness as entering freshmen; our scholastic problems as growing sophomores; our personal trials as rising juniors; and, finally, our problems of adult adjustment as graduating seniors.

Our aim has been to root out the impediments of a fruitful growing in the likeness of Christ. Through our spiritual and social advisors, we have been guided closely on the Golden Path.

To them, we owe much; and we pray that the grace of God will always shine down on them, in order that they may continue in their labors for His children, and someday receive the Heavenly reward they so richly deserve.

Bishops

Most Reverend Archbishop, Edward F. Hoban
Archbishop-Bishop of Cleveland

The Most Reverend Archbishop, Edward F. Hoban, and the Auxiliary bishop, the Most Reverend Floyd L. Begin and Most Reverend John J. Krol are appointed shepherds of the Church and leaders in the fields of Catholic Learning and Education.

Through all their hardy efforts and exertions they symbolize the traits of benevolence, surpassing ardor and love for their growing city. Their constant zeal to create and establish Catholic Action recognizes their immeasurable faith to fulfill the desires of Our Lord. If it were not for these our wonderful God-given helpers where would we get the help to live our lives in peace and holiness, and walk hand in hand with our Saviour.

Their loyalty, interest and moral concern for Catholic Youth inclines to promote the spiritual development of the diocese of Cleveland, Ohio.

Most Reverend John J. Krol
Auxiliary Bishop of Cleveland

Most Reverend Floyd L. Begin

Priests

O God, just as You have given us Christ as the Eternal High Priest to help establish Your glory upon this earth, grant that those You have chosen as Ministers and Keepers of Your mysteries may be found faithful in the fulfillment of the ministry they have accepted as their "Challenge in Life."

Give them the power and grace they need to overcome all obstacles that may hinder them from leading a life of loving imitation of Your Son, Our Lord, Jesus Christ, while they promise to do Your holy will. Amen

Our Principal

For four years the halls of Cantius and its students have been directed and guided by a warm and sincere person. Her name well-known by all, is Sister Mary Concepta. Through her guidance and assistance our ventures in social and scholastic life have been successful. She has been an example of true Christian self-sacrifice and devotion to all. She truly is a rare and brilliant person who will long be remembered by all her students.

We, the Seniors, especially, will remember her, because we have used her as our model to guide us to our eternal goal and have looked upon her as a special friend of each and every-one of us. She was never too busy to talk to one of us who had a difficult problem to solve. We are grateful to you, Sister Mary Concepta. You will often be in our thoughts and in our prayers.

Senior Teachers

Two teachers reign high in the hearts of the Graduating Class of '60. These are, Sister Mary Justitia and Sister Mary Theresitta. Not only have these, our homeroom teachers, implanted in our minds knowledge in the classroom but through their enduring and patient efforts brought forth in us a Catholic character. As we are about to undertake our journey on one of the many roads into the world, their words of wisdom, their encouragement, their faith that we will succeed in our endeavors will remain as fond memories of our days as their students during our senior year at St. John Cantius.

The Spirit of Cantius

The students of St. John Cantius well realize the important role a well-educated faculty plays in the training of young minds. The opportunity has arisen where we may express our sincere thanks to the Sisters for their wondrous efforts and understanding kindness which have opened the doors of a bright and shining future for us all. All students, especially the departing seniors will recall the knowledge they have so industriously instilled in our minds, and be thankful to them for it.

Lay Workers At Cantius

Composing part of the Cantius staff are the Lay Faculty, many of whom are quite familiar to the surroundings of Cantius. Others are comparatively new to our school. A warm bond of friendship has developed between them and the student body, whether it be in the classroom, gym, music room, choir room, or cafeteria. Through their zealous and untiring efforts they have succeeded in doing their part in building strong minds and bodies in the students of St. John Cantius.

Grateful to them is the Class of '60 who has grown to know and appreciate them over the school days. They will be remembered as truly great teachers and friends.

Our Faculty

Sister Mary Concepta, principal, can always be found intently at work in her office; but she is never to busy to listen to one of her student's problems.

"We've finally got that play down pat," Coach Dick Marabito tells Coach Robert DelRosa. Co-operation between faculty members reflects the co-operation evident between good students and teachers.

Underclassmen

Following the footsteps of those graduating before them, the underclassmen form the core of St. John Cantius High School for the future. In them lies the potential responsibility of setting a strong and true principle of upholding the ideals and standards of our school.

Each class will eventually be the "upperclass" of Cantius, and will be looked up to as a set example to follow in everything that is done.

"Practice makes perfect." With that in mind, underclassmen direct their thoughts and intentions toward bettering themselves in preparation for assuming the task of their senior year, when their responsibility will be to uphold ideals and standards and give that Christian example to those under them, who will follow them.

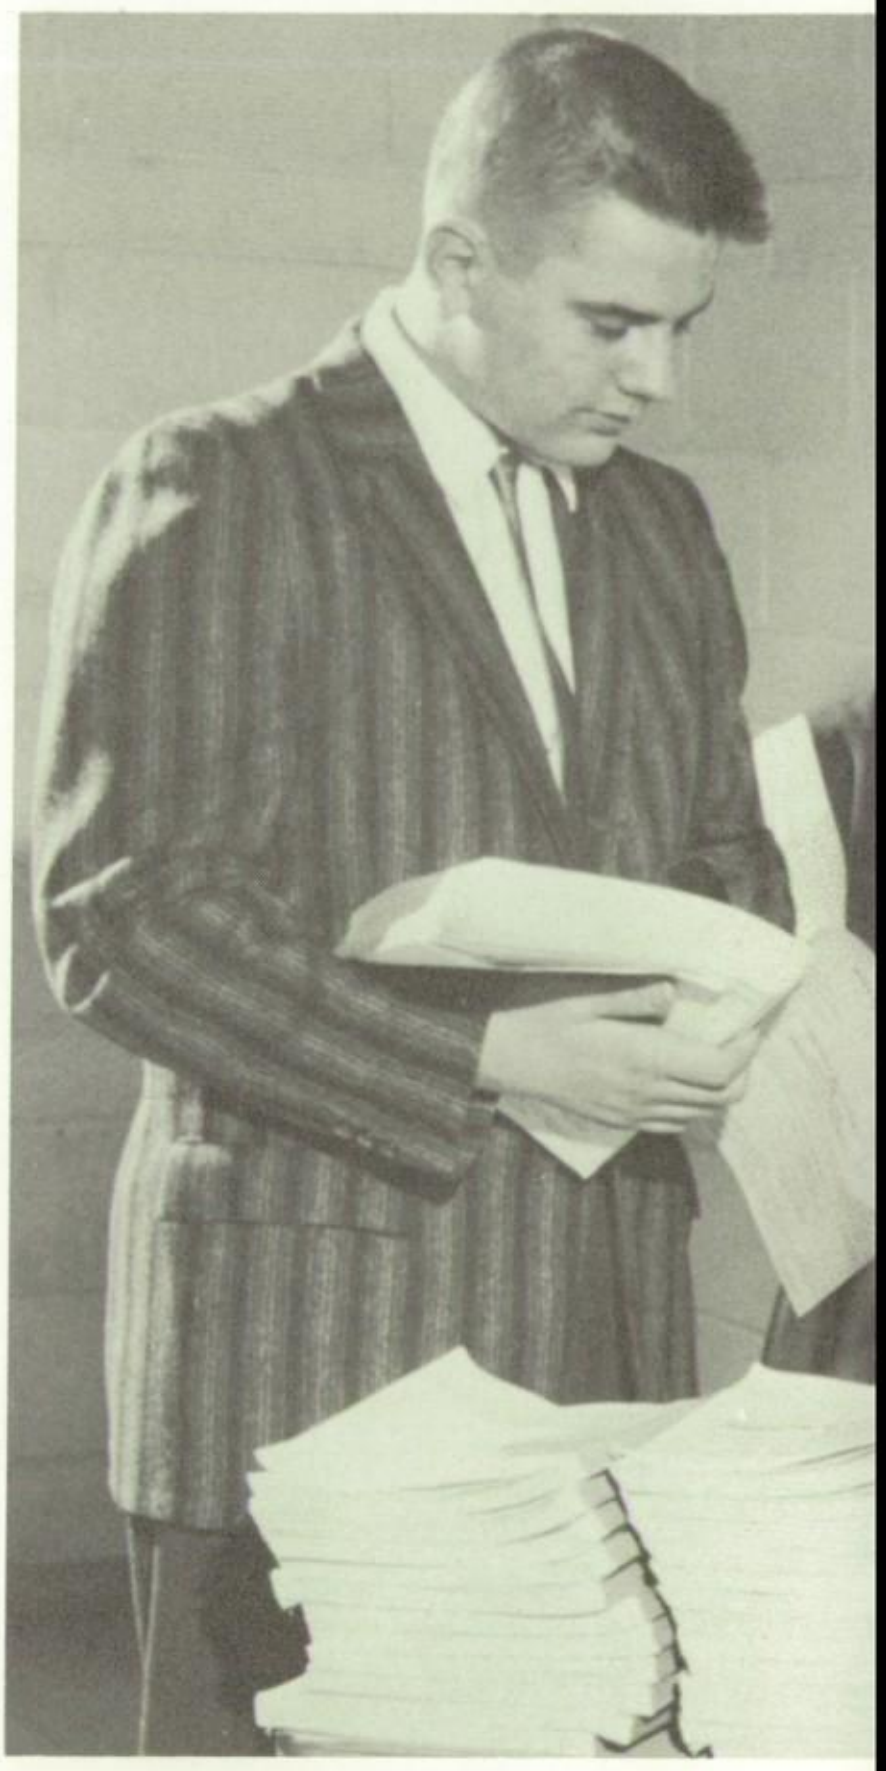
Scholarship

" 'Tis education forms the common mind
Just as the twig is bent the tree's inclined."
Pope Pius XII

Every Freshman student in our high school could be compared to a young twig in its formative years of growth. As the student progresses in years, he also progresses in knowledge, and through these years of study and guidance, the student has grown in both educational and spiritual fields. Through these four formative years the student has acquired a deeper understanding of living in accordance with God's laws as the laws of the land. He has grown and formed a good Christian character which is exemplary of every Cantius student. And now as graduation grows near the student anticipates a promising future in this wonderful land of opportunity.



Religion

In order for a student to gain a complete education, he must do more than learn the "three R's." He must come to a clear understanding of why he is living. Therefore his principles of Faith and morals are of the utmost importance.

By studying religion daily, a student acquires a full and thorough knowledge and understanding of his Faith, which he can successfully apply to his life now and in the future. A truly developed faith in God, which the student learns to accomplish during his religion classes, helps one be better prepared to accept life's challenge.

Leonard Hodar acts as chairman on a panel, of which Susan Podvorec, Anne Marie Zelenka, and Barbara Falkowski are members, that will discourse on the Holy Spirit as the Divine Enlightenment.

The study of Extreme Unction is an important part of Religion IV class. George Benedict explains the purpose and meaning of the sacramentals used in administering the last Sacraments to classmates Joanne Kruty, Monica Markovics, Loretta Yacyshyn, Celine Walko, and Arlene Bycoskie.

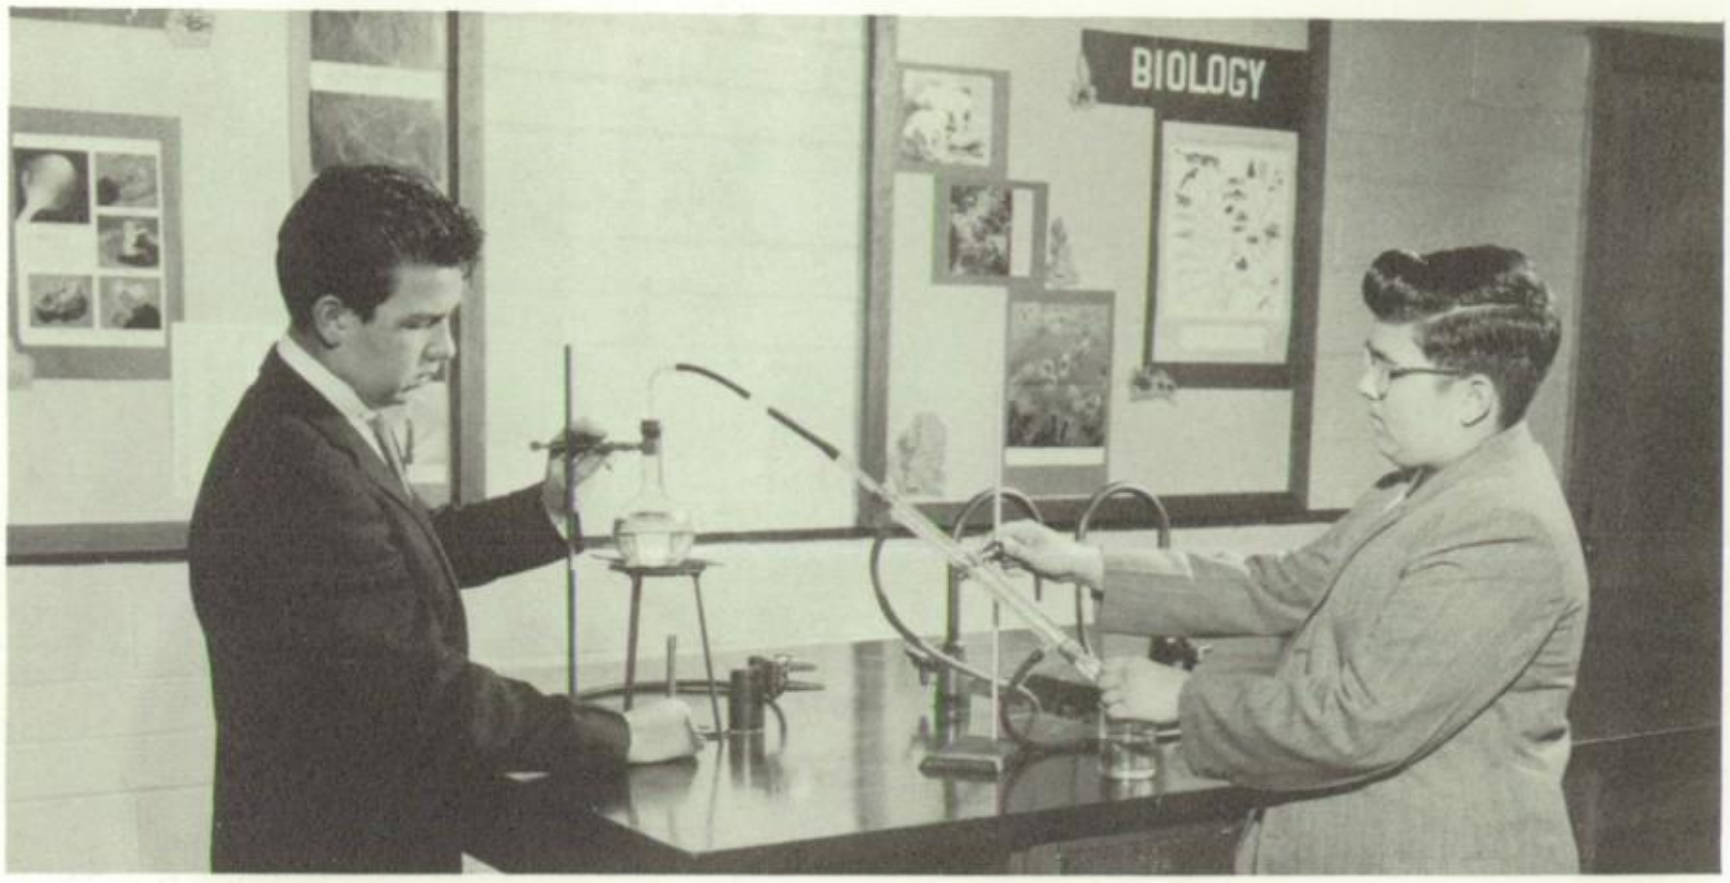
Current news provides a more interesting atmosphere for these American History students: Carolyn Acela, Ed Kustra, Andrew Novotny, Cliff Gonet, Joanne Halicz, John Kuczek, Eugene Sromek, and Ray Swier.

Tom Gorczyca explains to Virginia Gyurko, Joyce Hirsch, and Barbara Bujnak a problem concerning Mesopotamia which Stephen Balak is locating on the map.

History

History is the movement of the human race through time. Movement and time deal with change. Consequently, it is hard to describe any particular historical period in such a manner that will do justice to it, for it is changing, growing, developing, declining, all during its existence, and already giving birth to a succeeding period, while it is in the very process of developing from the seeds of thought of a preceding period. In their history classes, Cantius students constantly endeavor to learn of the world as it was and as it is, in an attempt to build the future in a better way.

A panel discussion always helps us understand our government system, as seniors Barbara Chluda, Michael Stofey, and John Kropinak conduct in an American Government class.

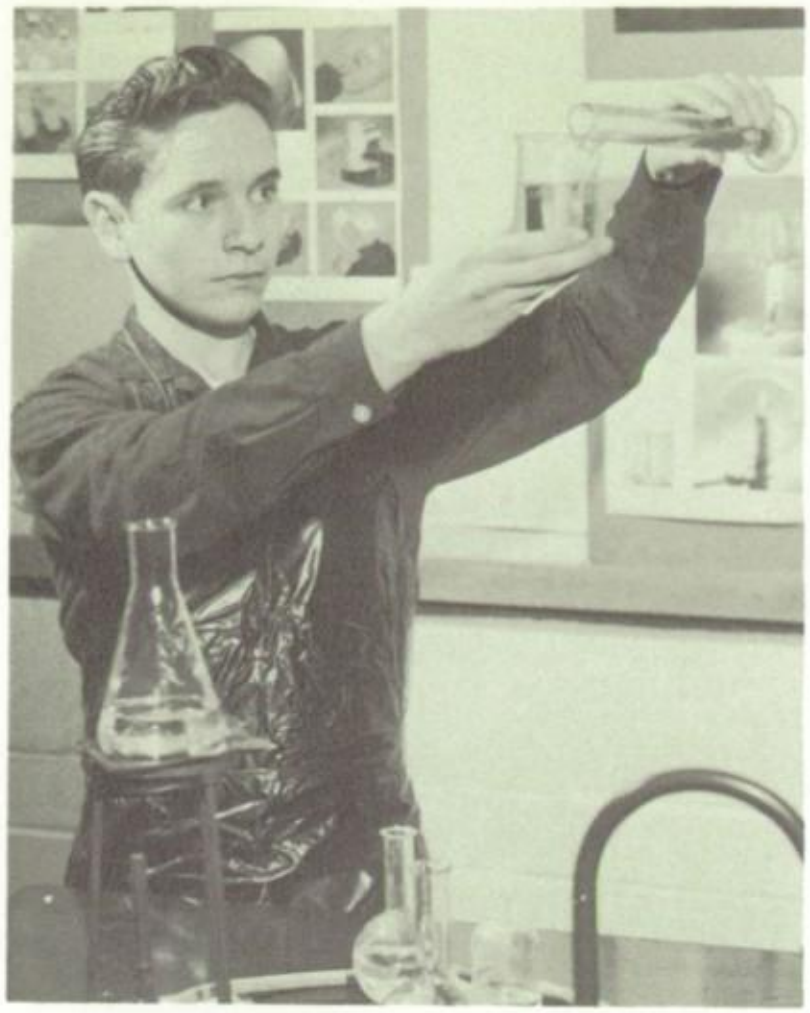


Freshman General Science student Gerald Gilson watches the heating of the alkaline water in the flask over the Bunsen burner, and Dennis Kopin, also a freshman, adjusts the delivery tube used in this apparatus for distilling water.

Science

"Get that filter paper!" and "Who dissolved my crystals?" are the familiar cries of the Chemistry students, while the girls in Biology cry, "Help!" when a pickled snake comes in view. These are but a few of the comical cries that come from our "mad" scientists at school who really are downright serious about their work. The Cantius science students realize how important science is, and they work and study hard so they can learn more about themselves and things around them.

Biology students Stanley Ryncarz, Karen Neubeck, and Barbara Chluda demonstrate the proper technique used in dissecting a typical Salientia, the frog.



Preparing for the scientific future the world promises them, Terry Brey, Pat Brunswick, and Carolyn Bolek, demonstrate proper lab techniques to the chemistry class.

Chemistry student Gerald Hyczwa carefully adds a measured amount of sulfuric acid to water in the beaker he's holding, in preparation for a complicated experiment he will perform.

Pat Zydonis explains the composition of the ear to Dorothy Toriskie who checks in the General Science book to see if Pat is correct, while Marilyn Wessel seems to be fascinated with the model of the semi-circular canals and cochlea.

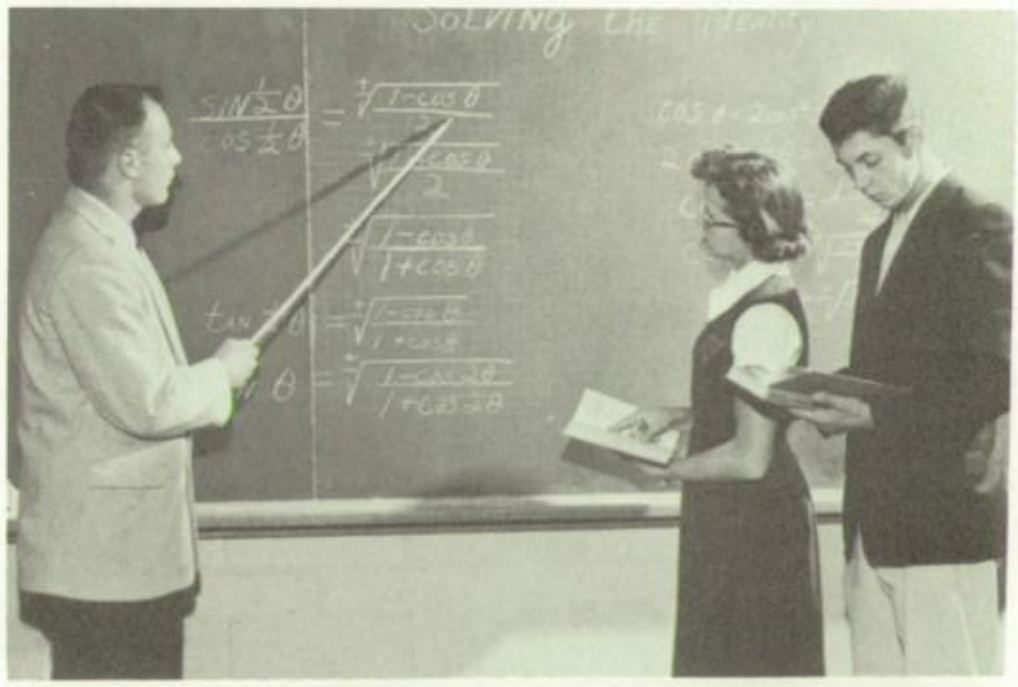
Mathematics

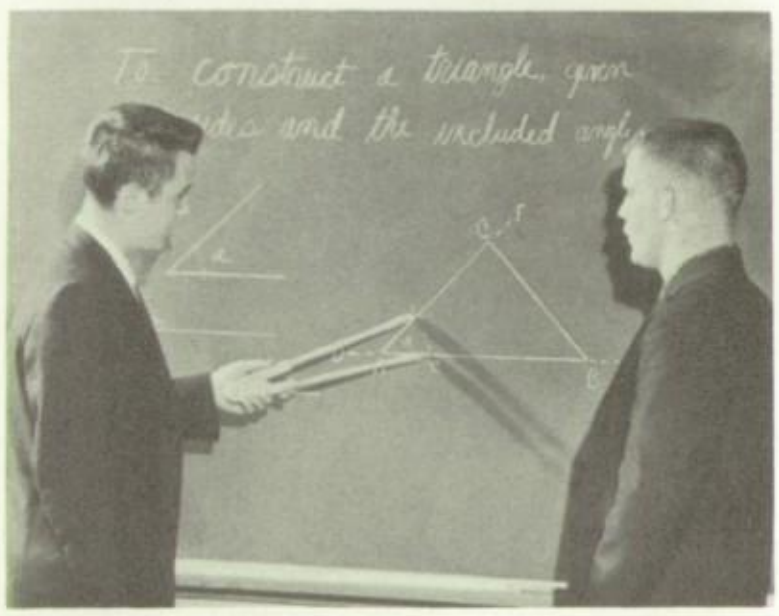
With the advancement of our Space age, the world is constantly searching for well-instructed mathematicians who, with their knowledge and keen intellects, will be able to formulate the intricate mathematical plans necessary for rockets and satellites that man will send soaring deep into space.

Math—the key that opens the door to a vast, unforeseen world! Algebra, Geometry, Solid Geometry, and Trigonometry, high school math subjects, are the bases of the advanced math specialists need to enable them to send man to explore the world beyond our atmosphere.

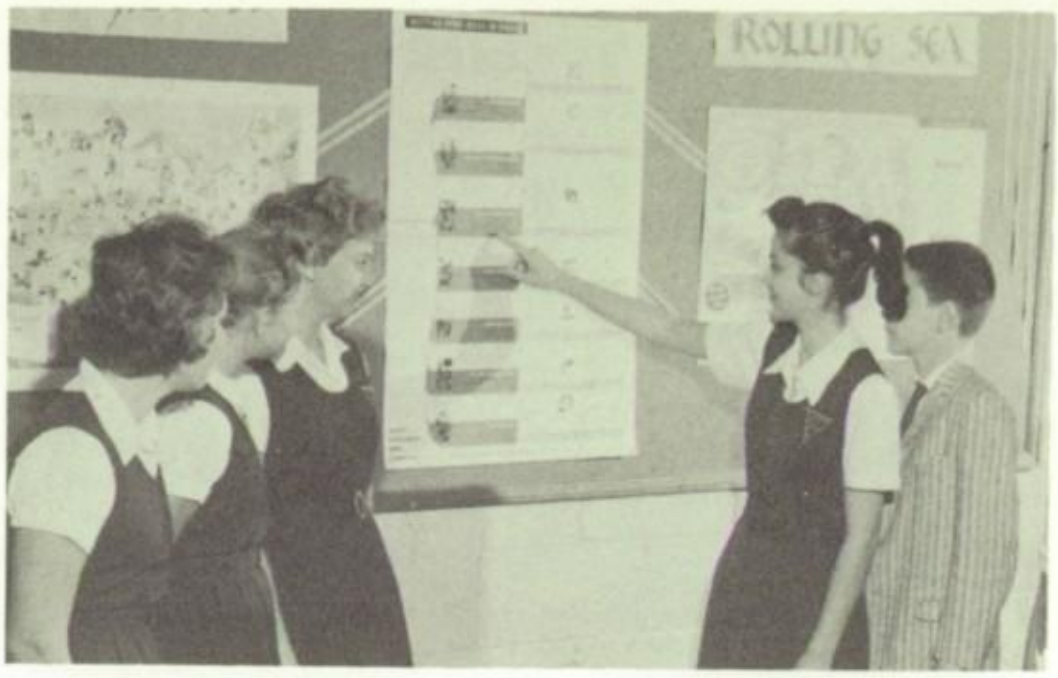
Attempting to solve identities of some Trigonometry examples are the mathematically-minded seniors Ray Swier, Mary Ann Wilczewski, and Ed Mysliwiec.



Problems of great length are not dead ends, merely detours to these two Plane Geometry students Ted Holz and George Benedict as they attempt to construct a triangle.



Examining the polyhedrons, cylinders, spheres and other solids studied in the Solid Geometry class are senior boys Frank Veverka, Ken Pepera, and Mike Stofey.



Roberta Daum explains to her fellow English I students; Sylvia Brey, Andrea Bola, Betty Bar, and Jim Corso, the efficient way to organize ideas for a composition, as illustrated on the chart.

English

As a bricklayer places stone upon stone and constructs an element of architectural beauty, intricacy and eloquence, so man utilizes language to create speech, a masterpiece of the intellect. Spoken thoughts and opinions form vocal stepping stones from one man to another, and from one nation to another.

Ages progress, and man strives to improve and mellow this masterpiece, not with age, but with understanding. Schools avidly instruct students in our English language, attempting to make it understood to all. Thereby it can mellow in the educated mind; but more than that, it will be at our beckoning command.

English IV literature students Frances Chmura, Doris Shina, Ray Swier, Joan Biel, and Ruthanne Payne use pictures and recordings to help them remember famous writers and their work.

Latin

When a student speaks of studying the "dead language"—Latin—one thinks of a boring, useless subject which has no bearing on modern education. However, Latin today can be interesting, helpful, and an asset in more than one way. The primary purpose of Latin is to instill into the minds of the students some cultural background, and to give him a better understanding of the English language which is largely of Latin derivation. One should recognize the important part a fundamental language such as Latin should play in our education and in our everyday lives.

Many English words are derived from the Latin language. Pat Kinash brings this fact to the attention of several Latin I students; Veronica Grotkowski; Cheryl Katanik, Andrew Drobney and Stanley Ryncarz.

Business

At St. John Cantius, students are given the opportunity to become skilled in the fundamentals of business in the excellent courses in typing, bookkeeping and related subjects offered to girls and boys. The various studies that they are concerned with in the commercial field prove invaluable as a preparation for a business career as well as other professions. The importance of applying the right techniques is stressed, for it equips the student for success in his profession.

Getting an idea of the vastness of the business world are these freshman General Business students; John Wolf, Carole Rummel, Sharon Bodnar, and Lauradee Jezior.

Office Practice class is not only a room in the school, for it turns into an office as soon as the machines starting buzzing, as it is shown here by industrious senior girls, Dolores Smith, Christine Lastuka, Kathy McCrone, Nancy Kowalski, Marilyn Piatak, and Mary Ann Sharosky.

Homemaking Classes

Arts learned in school come in handy in a person's future. What could be more useful than the art of cooking and sewing acquired through patient teaching and learning? In Home Economics class, cooking is not considered a drudgery, but a culinary art. Instead of just whipping up any kind of breakfast, lunch, and dinner, a girl learns to turn her interest to making a balanced diet attractive in appearance and nutritious in content.

Everyday sewing is not a monotonous duty; it is actually fun and can be profitable.

All this in one class, a class which truly prepares a girl for her future career as wife and mother.

A jelly roll, the finished product of concentrated work on the part of these freshmen Home Ec. girls, Therese Massage and Judy Sharosky. It is being cut for serving to the Home Ec. class.

Mary Ann Kruczek models her own suit creation in the May Fashion Show.

Dianne Kusek and Rosanne Paul, wearing the dresses they made, admire Marilyn Janocha's summer formal. All clothes were made in the sewing class, instructed by Sister Mary Sabina.

Joseph Bunsey, James Augustine, Dolores Galla, Kathleen Capretta, and John Pompeani endeavor to show their engrossed on-lookers Dorothy Toriskie, Kathleen Stachowski and Joyce Hirsch the importance of precision and neatness in letter printing.

Art

Art touches the life of the student at a time when he is most receptive, in the formative years of his life. This course of study is a powerful inspiration. It teaches the student to recognize and to understand the underlying structure common to all forms of art. He learns, through personal experience, to realize their importance as a link in the chain of his knowledge. Through art, the individual becomes an integral part of the community, appraising that which is constructive and rejecting that which is only fashionable and sensational. And it gives him a greater appreciation and love of God's wonderful world.

Taking all these things into consideration, art is a main aid in the attainment of full mental and spiritual growth.

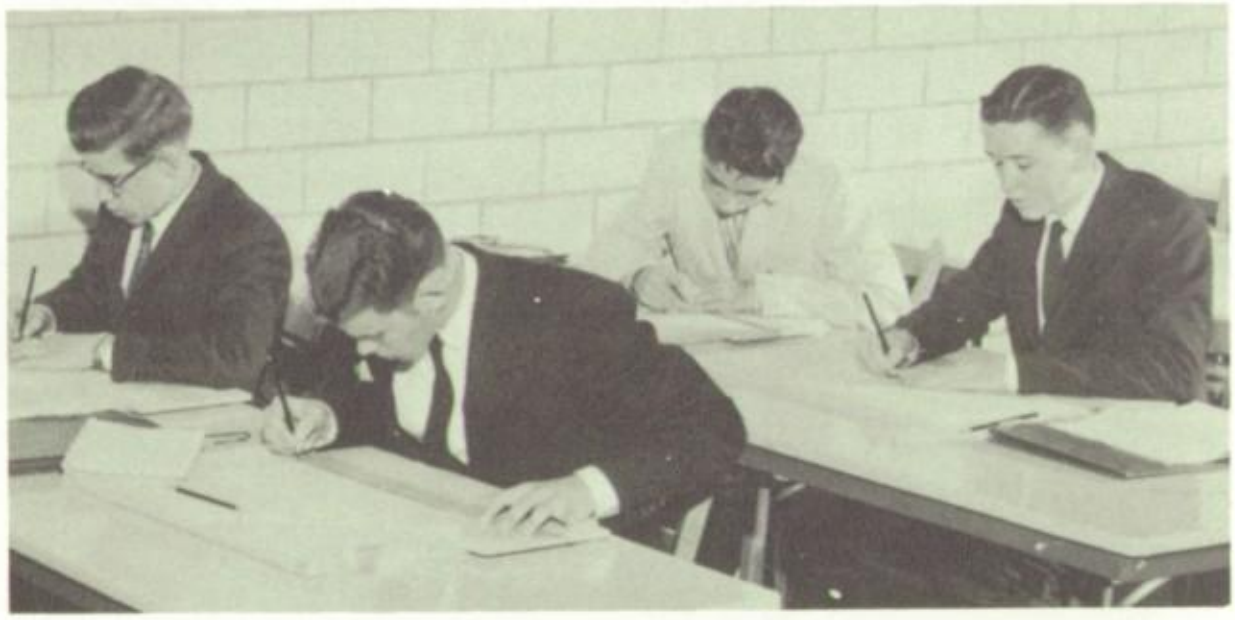
Projects accomplished in Art are varied and numerous. Here the students receive a few chalk drawing hints from Senior, John Pompeani.

With the joint achievement of the Art and Industrial Art Classes, this Nativity scene was made as a symbolism of Christmas.

Industrial Arts

John Augustine helps George Sigler cut a piece of wood on a band saw, while Robert Kwiatkowski watches that they do it correctly.

Industrial Arts in general includes a number of different courses. Drawing and Design teach the student how to read and draw blueprints. Woodworking varies from the simplest to the most elaborate type of cabinet-making. Electricity class brings the student to know and understand the fundamentals of general electrical mechanisms. People in all classes of society and from over the entire world come into contact with machine electricity because of our mechanical age. The aim of Industrial Arts is to give the pupil a background that will enable him to fit into the world of mechanical work which is the basis of our industrial society.



Woodworking boys strive to make a finished product by applying their skills. Precise planning before starting the project seems to be the secret of success.

Cliff Gonet states "it's simple boys," as he explains the use of a solenoid in a chime. Enlightened by the explanation are; Eugene Shromik, Andrew Novotony, John Kuczek, and Edward Kustra.

"Everyone up," says senior Gym Leader, Terry Brey.

Girls' Gym

In the girls' gym classes, traits such as sportsmanship, co-ordination, and self-discipline are stressed. The girls are trained in basketball, volleyball, baseball, tumbling, and numerous exercises which help them become sound in mind and body. Recreation also has its place in the class. Whether it's square dancing, the rumba routine, or just an occasional cha-cha-cha, the girls are always ready and anxious to show their talent and to enjoy themselves.

Gymleaders Ann Czilly and Ruthann Payne are ready to offer Kathy McCrone help in case she doesn't make that high jump.

A jump shot for a basket is attempted by senior Loretta Yacyshyn, as her opponent Joanne Trzeciak stands ready to get the ball on the rebound.

Team work, that's what does it, as we see Nancy Kowalski and Gym Leader Janet Kehn try to get that ball over the net; the team stands ready for action.

Physical Education

Mr. Richard Marabito and Mr. Robert Del Rosa are new instructors in the Boy's Gym Classes at Saint John Cantius. They introduced to their students a new type of gymnastics, involving the all important factors of co-ordination of mind and body. The boys became greatly enthused and carried out the exercises, though with some difficulty. Once they became accustomed to this new technique they began to exercise more accurately, and with greater ease. They learn through these gym classes what is required for a boy to become physically fit and to stay that way.

To keep in top physical shape, the boys do a number of sit-ups before starting regular gym classes.

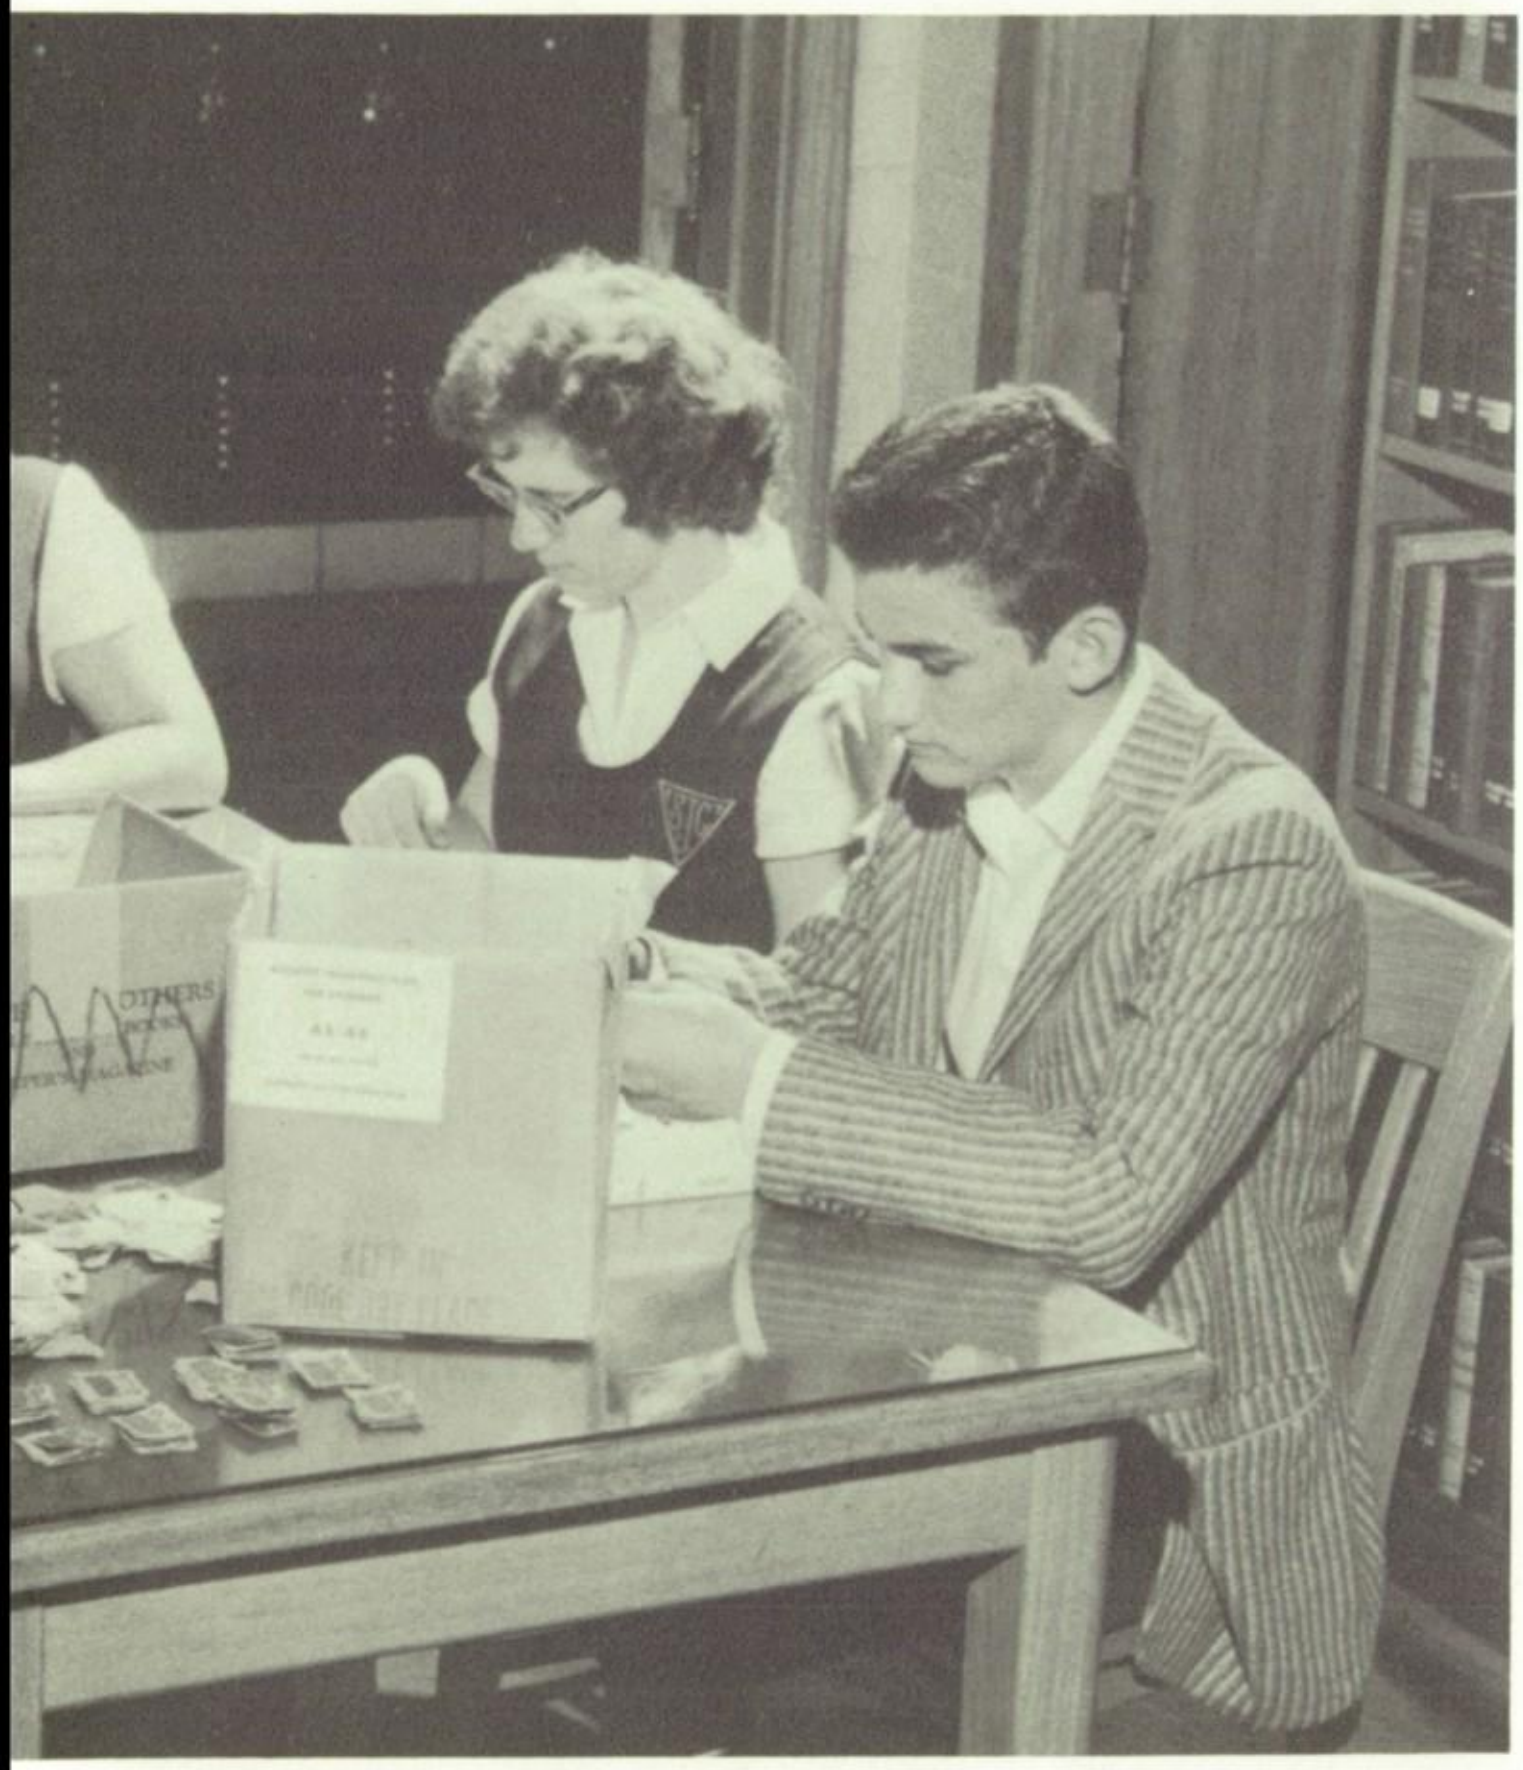
Chasing after the ball, John Kropinak, and Richard Sobczyk and Henry Dentkos attempt to recover the ball for each of their respective teams.

Michael Zanowich attempts a jump-shot for a basket while Charles Mattis tries to block his shot. Referee Jim Augustine carefully watches so no foul will be committed.

Activities

At St. John Cantius High School the opportunity is present to all students to develop their energy in good, clean fun at the same time. Spiritual, dramatic, literary, information, and educational clubs, whose membership is open to all students, offer everyone wide, varied, and equal opportunity to express their ideas and develop their talents in the capacity of club member or officer. Ambitious students who have the initiative and talent to be leaders become club officers; those with less ability do their best as club members, following their elected leaders.

Many a career has been nourished by the careful selection of the right school organizations to which a person belongs. But as in every endeavor, it must be done for a special purpose—utilize every effort to give greater honor and glory to God.



Reading over the rules keeps Frances Stachura, Barbara Ryba, Mary Ann Szymczak, Dianne Serva, Sandra Zimon, Marilyn Wessel Carolyn Bolek, Joanne Halicz, Dorothy Toriskie, Frances Suhm, Marleen Sutowski, and Donna Sotak more devoted to their work in the Sodality.

Sodality

The primary purpose of the Sodality is to get souls closer to God by using His Blessed Mother Mary as the inspiration of men. Sodalists utilize every opportunity to gain personal sanctification, and to spread devotion to our Blessed Lady.

One of the annual religious activities is the Living Rosary. The senior class plays an important part in this Sodality activity by forming living beads of the Rosary. Another activity is the Crowning of Mary in May, a traditional ceremony respected and loved by all of Mary's comrades. Through these and other functions, Sodalists make Mary known to their fellow students. By following their model, Mary, they have led many students closer to their Heavenly Mother.

Sodality officers: Dianne Serva, Treasurer; Christine Sutowski, President; Joanne Halicz, Vice-President; and Carolyn Bolek, Secretary; are busy arranging a tribute to Mary on the dedication of the Nation Shrine of her Immaculate Conception.

Members of the Sodality lead as Seniors represent the Living Rosary held yearly in the St. John Cantius Parish Church.

One of the monthly mission intentions mentioned in the Morning Offering is written on the blackboard by Pat Chudzynski and Eileen Gawryszewski.

The Mission Club officers: Dianne Watters, President; Barbara Butchko, Treasurer; Pat Chudzynski, Secretary; and Loretta Levan, Vice-President; examine the Mission flag, plaque and magazine, "The Shield." which are symbols of their club.

C.S.M.C.

The Catholic Students Mission Crusade is aimed to help missionary priests and sisters in foreign lands bring souls closer to Christ. Through the students' sacrifices collected on "Mission Mondays" they are able to purchase vital necessities, food, clothing, and medicine, which are greatly needed by the poor of lands less fortunate than ours. The club members relinquish their time freely for these activities because they know they are bringing happiness and love into the homes where it may never have existed. The C.S.M.C. asks for service, but pays those who help it a hundred-fold.

Patricia Hanych, Mary Jane Pietrzak, Donna Tolcher, Barbara Randar, and Joyce Gierlicke sort canceled postage stamps collected in their annual drive, to send to Missions in foreign lands.

Along with the everyday homework of high school, Carolyn Acela, Frances Chmura, Mary and Virginia Gyurko still find time to do catechetical work in the Cantius grade school. Their duty is to help prepare the children for First Holy Communion.

The radiant faces of the Vocation Club members display that they are proud and happy of the work they have done in helping further vocations by prayer and contributions.

Vocation Club

The Vocation Club is an active organization destined to bring students closer to the realization of their vocations in life, whether the married, single, or religious life. Members attend monthly meetings where a plan of fund-raising activities is prepared. Literature and lectures are given to them, aimed at acquainting members with the hardships and blessings of each of the states in life. Included in this program are prayers directed to the Blessed Virgin, invoking her aid to overcome all obstacles. Thus, the club prepares its members, who in turn help others, in their careers of the future.

Missions in foreign lands will be the next destination for funds set up by the Vocation Club. Dolores Galla, President, and Joyce Kusak, Vice-President, will see to that.

Study Club

A branch of the C.S.M.C. is the Mission Study Club. Each week members of the club meet to discuss articles in "The Shield," a magazine edited by a National Mission Club. Articles in the Magazine contain many topics on mission problems in foreign lands. The purpose of the Study Club is to discuss ways to help those less fortunate than we, and to put these thoughts into action by means of the Mission Club.

The latest issue of the "Shield" makes very interesting reading material for the C.S.M.C. Study Club. Christine Sutowski, Mary and Virginia Gyurko, Pat Polanski, and Margaret Bihn are taking advantage of some free time to catch up on the recent news events published in the "Shield."

Terry Brey, presiding over a Future Nurses Club Meeting, gives information concerning their future profession to the members of the White Caps: Alice Zaroski, Evelyn Materna. Marilyn Stephens, Wilma Cable, Pat Martin, Christine Sutowski, Marlene Sutowski, Barbara Merigold, Dianne Waters, Susan Arida, Maureen Anderson, Elaine Kovach, Bobbi Daum, and Maria Schmitt.

Dianne Waters feels she is in safe hands, when Future Nurses Alice Zaroski and Terry Brey attenc to her slight injury.

Future Nurses Club

Nursing is a career in which skill, training, and education play a major role. Attending a school that will enlarge on these important points is vital. The Future Nurses Club takes the responsibility of acquainting girls with the various Nursing schools in Cleveland. By going to open houses, club members are able to decide with greater care the school that will make them first-rate nurses.

Belonging to the FNC is an inspiritation to girls in regard to their qualifications and talents in the noble profession of nursing.

Eucharistic Squad

The Holy Hour every First Saturday wouldn't be complete unless our Eucharistic Squad was there to participate in the recitation of the rosary, hymns, prayers, and the Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament. Just an hour of their time every month is required to be a member of the club. Organized in 1957 by Sister Mary Emmanuel, the Squad has grown in number and spirit, and flourished under the guidance of Sister Mary Cecilia. Faithfulness of Eucharistic Squad member to their obligation proves their love for the Blessed Virgin.

Members of the Eucharistic Squad: Pat Janas, Celine Walko, Therese Wos, Monica Markovics, Kathleen McCrone, Doris Shina, Terry Brey, Ann Czilly; Loretta Yacyshyn, RoseMary Czelusniak, Dorothy Moralivitz, Pat Petko, Barbara Falkowski, Ann Marie Zelenka, Pat Kinash; Pat Zydonis, Barbara Rybe, Betty Bar, Jean Salek, Elaine Kovach; Terry Flors, Dan Weintraut, Henry Dentkos, and Joe Scotch: attend the Fatima Holy Hour every First Saturday.

Student Council officers: Carole Krasnodemski, Treasurer; Jerry Gorczyca, Vice-President; Michaline Sopsko, President; and Joanne Kruty, Secretary; receive last minute instructions from Sister Concepta before they go to various schools in Cleveland, to give prospective Freshmen facts about Cantius' scholastic and extra-curricular activities.

Winner of the annual Thanksgiving Day Raffle, Dennis Kalemba, receives his turkey from Student Council, President, Michaline Sopsko.

Student Council

The Student Council copes with difficulties that may arise during the course of the school year. Its prime objective is to promote co-operation between student and teacher while it provides for an atmosphere of friendship and understanding between faculty and student body. A representative chosen in each homeroom composes the active Student Council. Through these representatives the students receive the opportunity to decide on matters concerning them, thus the student body has the right of equal expression of opinion in problems concerning them. Through representatives, students are notified of coming activities in which they are asked to participate, another way in which they are part of our student governing body, the Student Council.

Student Council homeroom representatives are always willing to help to make the numerous activities of the Council a success. Mary Ann Sharosky, Pat Janas, Andrea Kubat, Sandra Zimon, Audrey Fitch, Veronica Grotkowski, Vicky Kiefer, Marcia Bugala, Diane Zawodowski, Harold Rankin, and Cheryl Katanik, tally ticket returns from the Student Council's Thanksgiving raffle.

Carol Zydonis shows the library hall pass, which gives her permission to leave class, to hall guard captain, senior George Benedict.

Hall Guards

Working with the faculty to insure order in the halls of Cantius throughout the school day are the hall guards. At their designated posts, at various points on the corridor, they carefully watch, while doing their own studying, that no student transgress any of the school rules or conduct themselves in an disorderly manner.

Any student who is free one period and has a sense of responsibility qualifies to be a hall guard. As a part of the Student Council, the hall guards' services are for the welfare of the students.

Captain George Benedict reprimands senior Pat Brunswick for going to her locker during classtime and threatens to report her.

The 1960 Cantian Review

Mary Faulhaber, Business Manager, is hard at work organizing the ad section for the '60 Review. Her assistants, Arlene Bycoskie, Therese Wos, and Celine Walko are doing their part to make our yearbook a success.

"To you with all our hearts and skills" are the words of the editors and staff members of the 1960 Cantian Review. We, the seniors, wish to present to you in pictures and words our scholastic, sports, and social events in the very best way we can. Through this medium, a very important part of ourselves, we have tried to put into our annual our feeling of confidence in the future and the friendship we have extended to each other, on happy or serious occasions. All the members of the Review staff attempt to convey this message to you, not by the sweat of our brow, but by the love in our hearts. A lot of work comes in from all departments and goes toward one goal—the best yearbook ever published.

Typists on the '60 Review staff work industriously to meet the deadline; Carolyn Acela, Gerri Juba; Joanne Kruty, Joan Biel; Pat Brunswick, and Carol Zydonis.

The Cantian

Staff reporters anxiously look on at their stories in the first copies of "The Cantian." They are Frances Chmura, Philomene Falinski, Barbara Butchko, Diane Kusek, Marcia Bugala, Veronica Kiefer, Donna Tolcher, Barbara Merigold, Janet Kehn, Dianne Waters, Loretta Levan, Kathleen Kunzen, Sandra Bobko, and Celine Walko.

One of the most outstanding characteristics of our American democracy lies in our freedom of the press. A school newspaper is a way of exercising this freedom, but on a small scale. The news reporter's duty is to see that all important events—scholastic, extra-curricular and sports—are accurately printed. The editorial writer has the privilege of expressing his views by means of writing opinions on subjects that may be of concern to students. A feature page may contain items of past news and informal essays.

"The Cantian" has fulfilled its obligations as a highly—rated newspaper, by presenting its views and the news accurately and adequately to students.

All stories must be typed, checked, and rechecked by the alert "Cantian" typists, before sent to the printer. Their work keeps Patricia Brunswick, Carol Zydonis, Kathleen Stachowski, Marilyn Mantifel, and Mary Jane Pietrzak occupied at all times.

Headline editor, Barbara Bujnak, explains to cub reporters Frances Stachura, Betty Bar, Frances Suhm, Marlene Sutowski, Dennis Kopin, Marilyn Wessel, Patricia Zydonis, and Donna Sotak, how to count units in making headlines for "the Cantian."

As the Angelic voices of the St. John Cantius Glee Club drifted over Public Square, men's minds were lifted to God, warmed by the spirit of Christmas, despite the fact that Jack Frost's presence was more than noticeable.

Glee Club

Along with the organ in a church ceremony, along with the sleigh bells of the yule tide, we find the melodious girls' choir of St. John Cantius.

Under the direction and supervision of Mr. Leonard Matczynski, the girls strive to perfect every note they sing. So it has been for seven years; in that time the choir has earned much praise of their beautiful vocalizing.

During class time, the girls sing Church music and many other old favorites. They are taught to understand their music more thoroughly by learning the fundamentals of music reading. Through this class a choir girl receives a more rounded cultural background in music, an advantage in any career.

Posing for the camera before another inspiring performance, the members of the Glee Club try to soothe those last minute "butterflies" by attempting to appear cool, calm, and collected: M. Dlugosz, E. Kusek, J. Kehn, L. Levan, C. Bolek, M. Sutowski, J. Payne, B. Rice, V. Kiefer, C. Katanik, P. Falinski, M. Mantifel, F. Chmura, M. Sopsko, S. Mazzeo, S. Bobko, J. Salek, M. Faulhaber, R. World Affairs meet World Affairs members from other schools. Here they get a chance to discuss their viewpoints on issues of current controversy. The Cleveland Plain Dealer edits a special current events paper which members receive. These activities make belonging to the World Affairs Club interesting and educational.

The newly organized World Affairs Club at St. John Cantius has as its objective to stir in its members an interest in broadening their understanding of other countries in relation to ours. This will gradually promote world peace.

Attending Stirring Committee meetings and special programs at the Main Library, members

Discussing countries that are of interest in this new decade are World Affairs Club members Mary Faulhaber (President), Terry Brey, Dolores Galla, Barbara Buynak (Secretary), Alice Zaroski (Vice President), Jack Pompeani, Angelo Gaudino, and Richard Egyud.

Dramatics Club

Dramatics members learn from Joanne Kruty the art of looking mad enough to beat some one. The poor victim is Kay McCrone. The ardent pupils are Evelyn Sekowski, Dolores Galla, Arlene Komisarz, Barbara Sinur, Ruth Ann Payne, Marjorie Nicholas, Dolores Smith, Marilyn Mantifel, and Bernadette Acela.

"Act well your part, there all the honor lies."

Members of the Cantius Dramatics Club follow this motto of the Thespian Troupes in the entire United States, and our Troupe 1396, in the execution on their every act. Whether as Shakespearean play or a light comedy, the thespians unite their talents and hearts to achieve as perfect a production as possible.

Members and officers of the club find that working together in a field of common interest gives them enjoyment, relaxation, and a chance to use and expand their individual talents.

The Dramatics Club officers, above the members, have a respect for the pennant which officially makes their club a member of the National Thespian Society. The officers are: Marilyn Piatak, Secretary; Bernadette Bunsey, President; Carolyn Acela, Vice-President; and Jack Pompeani, Treasurer.

The senior class presented a playlet in honor of Our Lady on November 20, day of the dedication of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception. Here, Sister Mary Concepta leads the student body in recitation of the prayers for the last day of the Triduum which ended on that day.

Gym Leaders Club

Wearers of yellow gym suits bearing a blue and gold emblem with the letters G.L.C. are members of the Cantius Gym Leaders Club. The quality of leadership is a necessary requirement for membership in this exclusive club. A Leader will co-operate in every way with the faculty and her fellow students. Helping girls in the Physical Education Class is one of a Leaders important jobs. A Gym Leader possesses a winning personality and Cantius pep to make her a perfect student at S.J.C.

Booster Club

"We're with the team!" This is the fitting slogan of the S.J.C. Booster Club. Its main purpose is to make student participation a greater part of school affairs. Their dynamic spirit has kindled a burning flame of school spirit which is noticeable in each student. Through their efforts, an enthusiastic cheering crowd has been maintained at every athletic game. The halls of Cantius wear on their walls posters made by Booster members, urging team and school on to victory. The Booster Club, though only two years old, has done a very successful job.

Putting up one of their many posters to create school spirit are the Booster Club officers Vicky Kiefer, Treasurer; Mickaline Sopsko, President; Pat Kinash, Secretary; and Doris Shina, Vice President.

Airplane Club

The Airplane Club was organized by boys who are interested in model airplanes. They have built these planes as a hobby outside of school, then put them on exhibit and entered them into contests.

Our Airplane Club has won many trophies and has had a great deal of recognition in the past and hopes to keep its outstanding record.

Excellent work in the athletic program of Cantius is due to the tremendous effort and time which our Dads' Club members: Father Duda (moderator), Robert Del Rosa, Richard Marabito, Al Stachowski; Joe Keselica Jr., Ed Flors, Joe Pesto; John Tomon, Bob Gassman, John Gill, Bill Cernanec, Joe Boczek, Ignatius Hadam; Joe Zaroski, Stanley Klocek, Chester Galaszewski, Ed Osysko, Ted Sarby, Julius Kasprzk, Alex Nicholas; Charles Mays, Steve Hancrik, Walter Wypasek, John Redmon, Steve Walaszek, Ray Muck, along with Boxing Promoter John Giachetti; have given to the school.

Dad's Club

"Give credit where credit is due," to the Cantius Dads' Club for their wonderful assistance in sports throughout our entire Athletic Program. This club, composed of fathers of Cantianites, is especially appreciated by each individual athlete who realizes the expense of the athletic equipment which the Dads' Club purchases. The funds they use are raised in their annual Boxing Show and September carnival given for the general public.

No club does more for Cantius' athletic program than the Dads' Club. This recognition goes to them!

Sports

Under the special guidance of Our Lady of Victories, the Jayhawks came forth with a very successful athletic program. New school spirit was shown in all sports. With this spirit, the teams' willingness to do their best, and the skills of the two new coaches, new "victories" were acquired—a sincere form of good sportsmanship—to be stout of heart in defeat and humble in victory.

Our Spirit Mother kept our boys from serious bodily harm. While conducting themselves in a way worthy of her love, they set new records.

There are many "guards" in the world today as we work towards our eternal "goal." To overcome these obstacles, we need the defense of a fine Catholic character. Each action of the teams' plays, their teamwork and co-operation helped to mold these characters which will aid them in the difficult game of life.

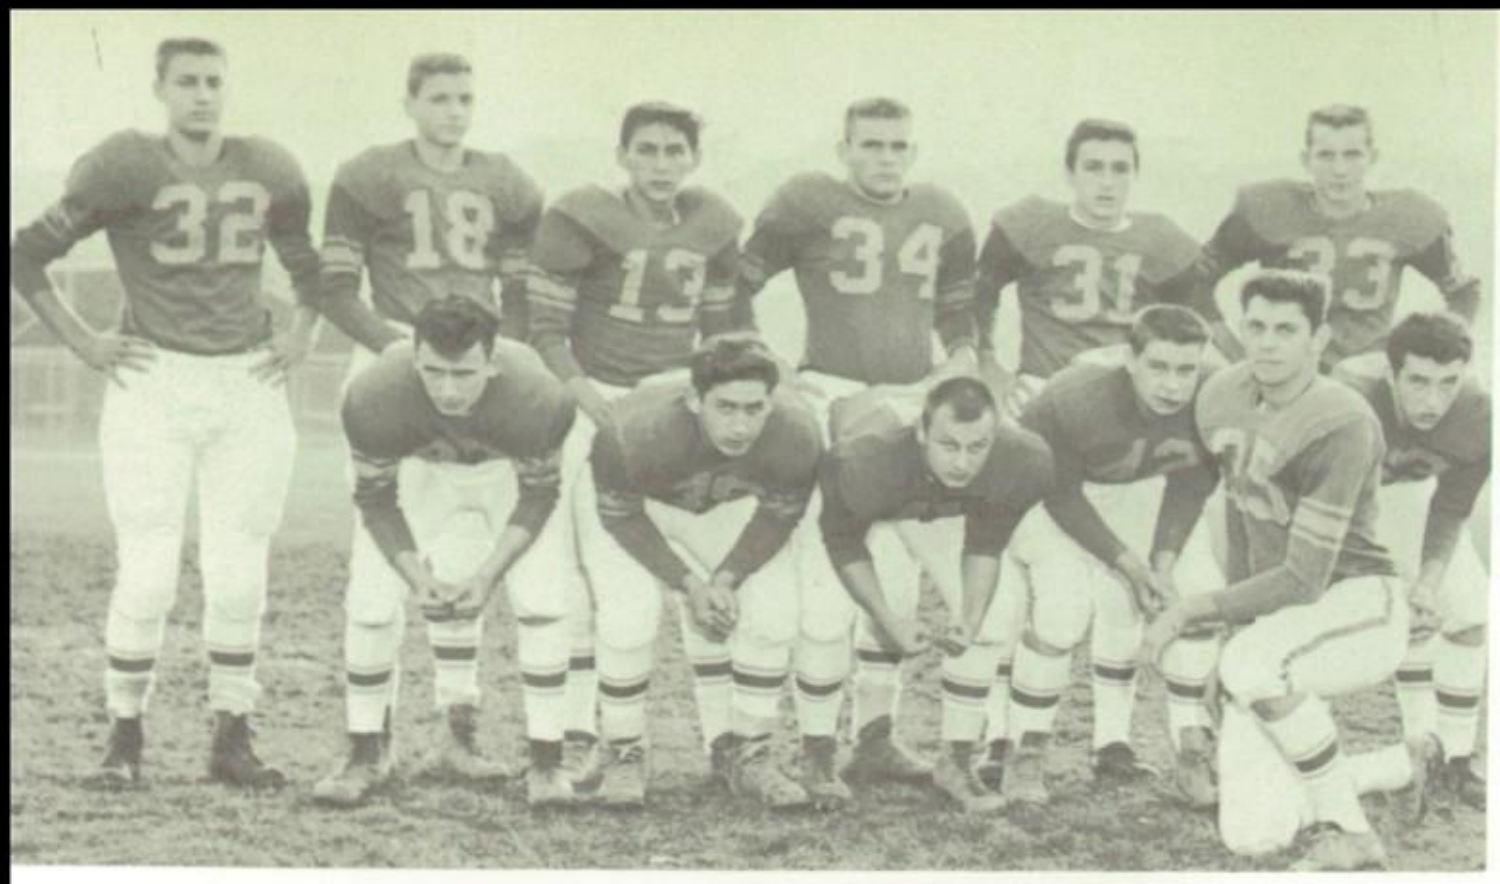
Under the skillful guidance of the two new coaches, the Jayhawk Gridders acquired the best record in the school's football history. Assistant Robert DelRosa and Head Coach Richard Marabito talk over a new angle of strategy in an effort to lead the Jayhawks to another victory.



The success of our season was achieved mainly through the efforts of our seniors. Their leadership and guidance on the gridiron was a decisive factor. They are: Ed Mysliwiec, Joe Scotch, Al Byczek, Ray Swier, Jim Pesto, Frank Veverka, Terry Flors, Dick Tolcher, Mike Stofey, George Benedict, Bob Sindyla, and Ken Pepera. Congratulations Boys!

Post—season honors were gained by these five senior boys in the North Central Conference: Bob Sindyla, George Benedict, Ken Pepera. Jim Pesto and Ray Swier. Congratulations is due to George Benedict, All Conference Fullback, for a job well done.

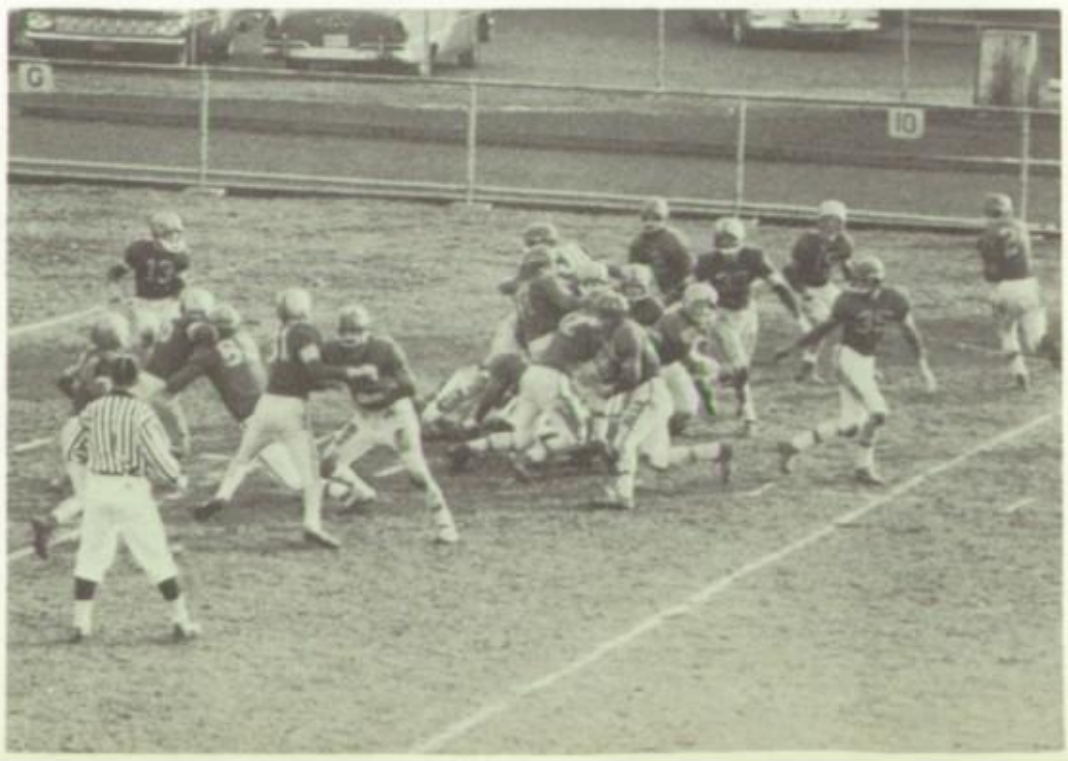
George Benedict powers his way through the opposition behind strong blocking.

Fleet halfback, Bob Sindyla, breaks away for yardage against Elyria Catholic's squad. Leading the way are George Benedict and Ed Mysliwiec.

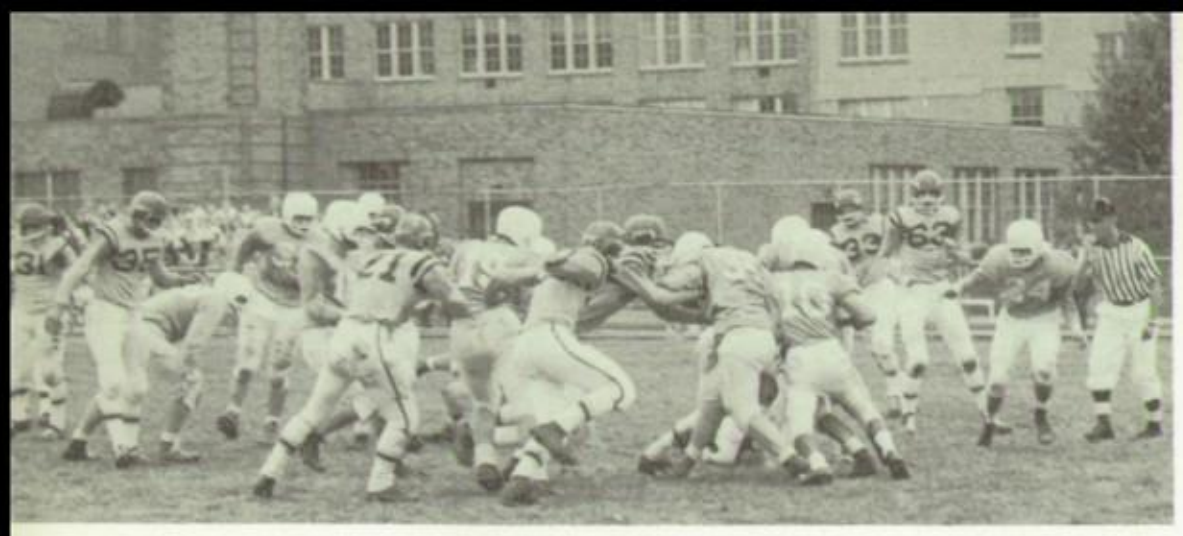
On fourth down, the Jayhawks are forced to punt while deep in their own territory. This punting team played a vital role in situations like this.

Agressiveness is shown by end Terry Flors as he brings down an Elyria Catholic offensive back. Frank Veverka moves in to help.

Ken Pepera's effort springs Bob Sindyla against Our Lady of Lourdes.



Fullback George Benedict breaks loose for another first down. The big hole for George is being made by the blocking of Ken Pepera, Frank Veverka, and Jim Pesto, as they all seem to be moving their men.



Our football team shows their power on dive play up the middle in their romp of 48-0 against Our Lady of Lourdes.

The combination of Ed Mysliwiec and Ken Pepera prove to be vital in our passing attack. Here Ed Mysliwiec loops a pass to Ken for a touchdown.

A Queen Shall Reign Where Power Is Supreme

That was the day we'd all been waiting for, a day a queen was crowned. Never had there been a football season without a Homecoming Game, and especially, a Homecoming Queen, and this year was no exception. The never ending faithfulness of the female participants was well-rewarded with the assurance of being escorted by representatives of the football squad. This was a day that will be long remembered in the hearts of all.

Queen of our 1959 football team, Michaline Sopsko, prepares to leave the field after the big ceremony. She is being helped off, by George Benedict and Bob Sindyla.

The Queen, after receiving her bouquet of flowers, displays her gratitude by reciting a speech that gave encouragement to her team, while her court and their escorts Pat Kinash and Bob Sindyla; Cecilia Baskiewicz and Ken Pepera; Monica Markovics and Frank Veverka; Pat Janas and Terry Flors, are anticipating a victory.

At the Homecoming Dance, last year's Queen Donna Siwik passes down the honor to this year's reigning Queen, Michaline Sopsko. First attendant Pat Kinash and Bob Sindyla, Second attendant, Cecilia Baskiewicz, and Ken Pepera await the pinning of the corsage by George Benedict.

George Benedict, football captain; receives the honor of pinning the corsage on the Queen, Michaline Sopsko.

The dance brings to a close a memorable day, but one that will not be forgotten in the hearts of those who took part in this joyous occasion. We honor the Queen, her attendants, and their escorts; Monica Markovics and Frank Veverka, Pat Janas and Terry Flors, Michaline Sopsko and George Benedict, Cecilia Baskiewicz and Ken Pepera, Pat Kinash and Bob Sindyla; at this dance.

Cheerleaders . . Victory is Our Business

Inspiration has been the theme of our Cheerleaders this year, whether on the football field or on the basketball court. They have been behind our team at every moment, whether in victory or in defeat. Their encouragement and spirit have been a priceless gift to the team as well as the many fans. We will always appreciate you, for a job well done!

Nothing could make our Cheeerleaders happier than a victory, and the smiles on their faces is proof enough that one has been made. Kneeling are Kathleen McCrone, Joanne Kruty, and Joanne Biel; standing are Pat Janas, Ruthanne Payne, Cecilia Baskiewicz, and Marjorie Nickolas.

At the initial basket rally before the opening game, the cheerleaders display their feelings concerning the upcoming season to the student body . . . VICTORY!

Wessel, R. Petro, Coach J. Gentile, J. Kelley, T. Holz, S. Gwiazda, T. Holz, R. Janas; P. Zazac, E. Kustra, R. Byczek, J. Brooks, T. Ternovan, and B. Janas.

Features

As a freshman goes through the doors of high school, he sees many exciting things ahead of him. Above all is learning, the primary purpose of any school.

But gazing deeper into this panorama of educational adventures, he sees things that seem entirely irrelevent to education itself—the 'special' events that take place during the school year—some events to be engaged throughout school and some for 'special' times.

The student takes his place in this new highschool world the day he's formally accepted in the Freshman Induction Ceremony. In the reception of his class ring as a junior, he assumes a new dignity, and further promises and proves his loyalty to our school and its principles, a loyalty demonstrated from his first freshman days.

Soon the long—awaited days of the senior year are upon him, and will find him indulged in the many activities of that final year, with the grand-climax—Graduation.

Time will find young men and women looking back on these wonderful days of their high school life. The knowledge they have gained during this time will remain with them all through life, in their minds. And the fond memories they have gathered in the 'special' things they have done will remain all through their lives in their hearts.

The King ☆ Junior-Senior Prom ☆ The Queen

Ed Mysliwiec

Drifting in a dream of soft light and heavenly music, each Cinderella glides across the floor with her Prince Charming, as her skirts skim the mirror-like floor. A girl's lifelong dream comes true when she floats into the ballroom in her bouffant gown, elegant long with white gloves, a sparkling tiara in her shining hair, and carrying the exquisite corsage from her handsome escort.

Each escort is a prince on a white horse; he beams with the satisfaction that his impressive dress and manners has him overpowering his Fair Lady. He, too, feels the enchantment of that wonderful night of nights, the Junior-Senior Prom. There's no need for stars in the skies, for there are stars in the eyes of all who attend this splendid occasion.

The beautiful Lakeshore Hotel will on Friday, May 27, accomodate the young ladies and gentlemen who will make this Prom their lifelong memory.

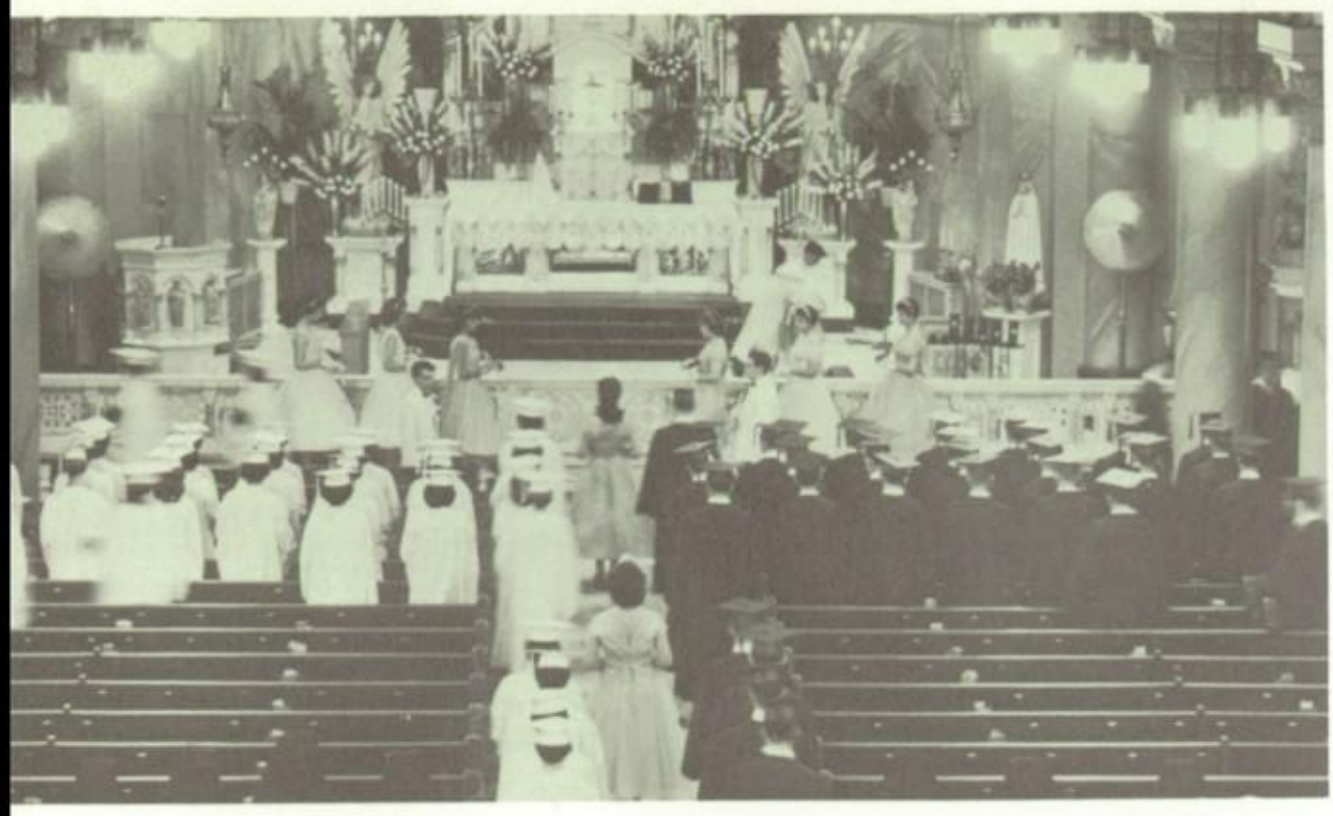
Washington Trip

Excitement ran high in the halls of Cantius especially for twenty-eight seniors, with the approaching of April 20, 1960. For on that day they would depart from Cleveland at 3:00 P.M. and arrive only a few hours later in the nation's capital, Washington, D.C. This feat was accomplished by the speed of air travel. The class of '60 was the first class to fly to Washington. This annual spring trip has proved to be a memorable one, because of the trip by plane and because of the thrill of touring the vast, wonderful capitol of the U.S. This was one of the wonderful ways to end four wonderful years at St. John Cantius.



Graduation

It is Graduation day for the seniors in the Class of '59. Honor Guards, members of the Junior Class, lead the graduates on their last march down the aisle of Cantius Church as a class.

Just as the doors of St. John Cantius opened four years ago to welcome us as entering freshmen, they are now swinging out to send us into the world as graduates. The path stretching before each of us will often be narrow, but with the background of a Catholic education, traveling it should not be too difficult. Leaving the routine of daily classes, homework, all that has been a part of us does not mean the end, but rather the beginning.

The foundation has been laid; the rest is up to us. Living by the rules of Christ will give us the courage and ability to face each new day.

At Graduation Exercises held a St. John Cantius Church, graduate Theodora Sroka receives her diploma from Reverend Father Francis Szudarek, while altar boy Ronald Falkowski and Reverend Father Richard Bober assist.

Speaking on character, scholarship, leadership, and service, is Reverend Father Francis Szudarek in his address at the induction into the National Honor Society of graduates; Theodora Sroka, Joan Evans, Barbara Daniels, Ted Obloy, Robert Vukosic, Raymond Pankuch, Patricia Schmitt, Antoinette Rosenski, Donna Siwik, and Ann Desch.

National Honor Society

The National Honor Socity is an organization which distinguished its members as being students who have acquired exceptional standings in their high school years, scholastically and in character. Seniors chosen by the faculty as candidates for membership to the Society have proven to be of high scholastic average, of selfless service to the school, of known leadership in activities, and of high Christian character.

NHS gives to its members prestige which enables them to succeed in life, whether at work or at college. Membership in NHS must be striven for during the entire four years of high school; and if attained, it proves to be its own reward.

The cast and sage crew combined their talents under the direction of Sister Mary Theresitta to make the Senior Class Play, "Jenny Kissed Me," a great success. Stage crew: Gerald Gumienny, Janet Minosky, Barbara Chluda, Bernadette Bunsey, Wilma Cable, Kathy Capretta, Marilyn Mantifel, Marylyn Piatak, Dolores Galla, Jack Pompeani, Mary Ann Wilczewski, and Alice Zaroski. Members of the cast are: Ted Holz, (Owen Parkside), Bob Sindyla (Michael Saunders), Joanne Kruty (Jenny), Dolores Smith (Mrs. Deazy), Walter Ruszkowski (Father Moynihan), Ray Swier (Mr. Parkside), Joyce Kusak (Sister Mary of the Angels), Terry Brey (Miss Sterns), Kathy McCrone (Jane), Barbara Sinur (Priscilla), Ruth Payne (Mary), Arlene Komisarz (Harry), Loretta Yacyshyn (Shirley), and Evelyn Sekowski (Jo).

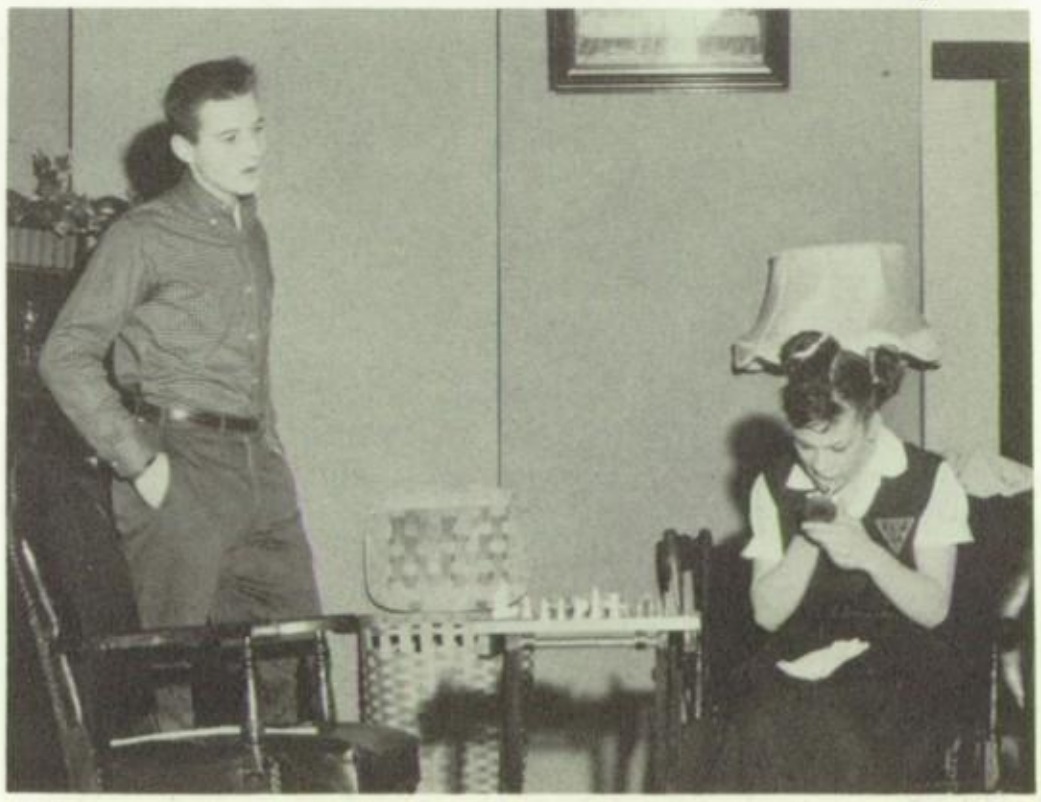
"Jenny kissed me!"

"Jenny Kissed Me" Senior Class Play



"Don't slash at yourself like that. You're not soaping up a window. Now let's start all over. Start from the center and work to the sides . . . now the other side. Hey, don't squizzle your lips together!" Owen informs Jenny on the proper way to apply lipstick.

. . . and our score went up a little higher

With deepest sympathy, Seniors Ann Czilly and Mary Faulhaber offer Junior cheerleaders Loretta Levan, Vicky Kiefer, and Marcia Bugala memorial wreathes on the defeat of the juniors on that fateful day in February.

Junior Senior Game

One of the most anticipated events—awaited this year, as always, with friendly rivalry—proved the Seniors conquerors by the tremendous record-breaking score of 98-54 in the Junior-Senior Basketball Game.

The Varsity cheerleaders, leading the victorious Seniors, dressed as freckle-faced hillbillies with big straw hats. The junior varsity cheerleaders, wearing their guns and cowgirl outfits, spirited the juniors.

Both teams displayed sportsmanship and teamwork throughout the game. Provided no successive class tops this scroe, "98-54" will go down in the annals of SJC as a great accomplishment of the Class of '60!

"Lullaby and Goodnight," sings Christmas Bride, Frances Chmura while Doris Shina, second attendant; Carol Zydonis, fourth attendant; Mary Ann Sharosky, third attendant; and Alice Zaroski, first attendant; bow their heads in silent prayer. Elementary school girls also acted as attendants at the cremony.

Christmas Bride

"Keep Christ in Christmas." This is the fitting slogan put into practice with the yearly observance of the Christmas Bride ceremony. Much of the personal adoration that should be given to the Christ Child at Christmas is left out with the modern times and its modern practices. So, with this solemn Christmas time program, each student gets the opportunity to offer that personal adoration to the Baby Jesus that He deserves on CHRISTmas, His Birthday.

Christmas Bride of 1959, Frances Chmura, devoutly offer her prayer of thanksgiving to the Child Jesus.

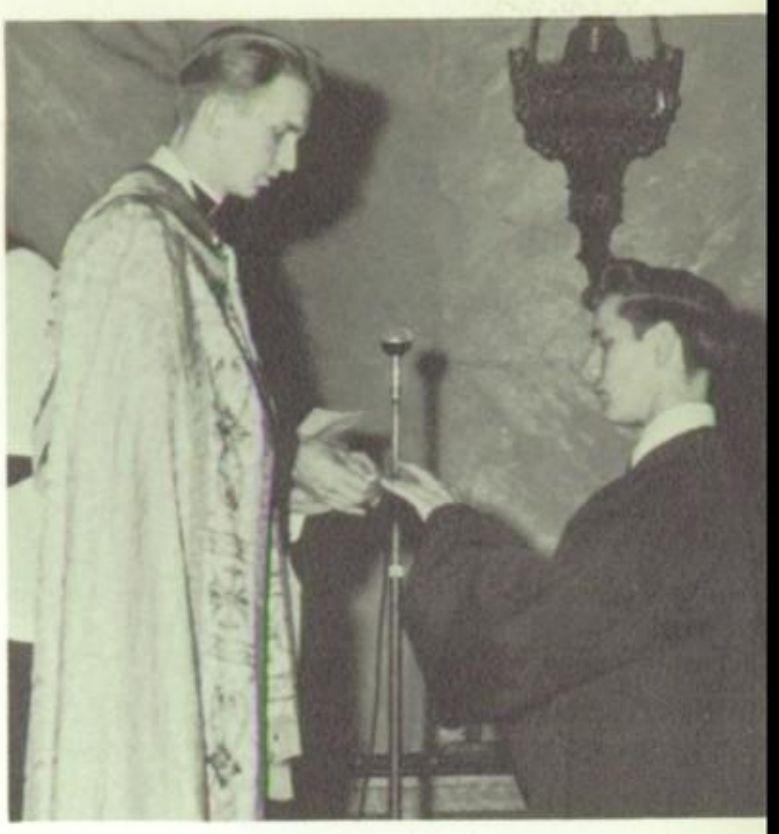
Mary Ann Sharosky, third attendant, reverently recites her prayer for the teachers of the world to the new-born Christ Child.

While the Christmas Bride holds the Infant, the high school students offer Him their love in a reverent kiss.

Junior Ring Ceremony

On November 22, 1959, the junior class of Cantius received their greatly anticipated and highly prized class rings. With the reception of these rings, the juniors took it upon themselves to prove their worthiness to wear the ring which bears our school insignia.

This task could only be accomplished by constant work on their part. As they aspire to their final year at SJC, the class of '61 will realize that their work shall not have been in vain . . . that they have brought themselves honor . . . . . that they have become a class to be warmly remembered.



Reverend Father Norbert Duda solemnly places the school ring on Junior Gerald Hyczwa's finger at the Junior Ceremony held at St. John Cantius Church.

After the Junior Ring Ceremony, Christine Sutowski and Darrell Ellis excitedly admire their newly acquired rings of the class of '61.

Frosh Induction

The actual participation in school work and activities cannot be fully achieved by Cantius freshmen until they are formally inducted, both individually and as a class, into our school. Freshman Induction takes place at the beginning of each new year, at which the freshmen are invited warmly into the school and explained the true meaning of our school colors, blue and gold; our guide, the Blessed Mother and her Rosary; and our goal, God's glory and our own salvation. Each freshman is presented Our Lady's rosary by the Senior Class Officers; they then recite their pledge of loyalty and sing our school song. Then they become proud Cantianities.

Ken Pepera, president of the Senior Class, and Frank Veverka vice president, give to freshmen Gerard Gilson, a rosary, symbolic of Cantius students love for our Lady.

Reciting a pledge of loyalty, love, and respect to St. John Cantius, the new freshmen officially become Cantianites at their induction.

Graduates

The long awaited day that comes once in a lifetime is here, but then will soon be over.

On Sunday, June 5, eighty-six seniors will meet as a group for the last time, when they will participate in the solemn commencement exercises at St. John Cantius Church.

Most of the seniors have gone through twelve years of Catholic schooling, and have learned good Catholic morals and how to practice them. The guidance they needed in serious and social matters could always be found in the Sisters who taught them. Now the only guide they will have is their own conscience. And only now can they all prove how well they are ready for adult life when they leave behind them their favorite years—years of lessons, enjoyment, fond memories—and start out on a new road—one filled with obstacles and hardships.

As they embark on this unknown journey, the graduates of the Class of 1960 will always remember the one who helped them in their need and who will continue aiding them, the Blessed Virgin Mary.

CONGRATULATIONS
SENIORS OF 1960

Our congratulations, loving and true,
We are extending to you today;

May the happy light from your well-spent years
Shine soft and warm ever your way.

May the fruit of unselfish service sweet,
The ripened sheaves of a life that cheers,

Bring their harvest of peace and joy to you
Through many more beautiful years.

Fortune now bless you, Wisdom caress you,
Christ your safe Pilot be.

Life's every hour show you His power,
His smile, His charity.

Though brave your eager heart, now at your journey's start
Seek Him confidingly.

Then will He lead the way, on through Life's little day
Safe to eternity.

Acknowledgements

We wish to express our sincere gratitude to all those who contributed to the production of the 1960 Cantian Review. We would especially like to thank the following:

Sister Mary Concepta, our principal; the faculty; the senior yearbook staff; the entire student body; and especially our moderator, Sister Mary Justitia for their wonderful co-operation with the Review editorial staff.

Mr. and Mrs. Ripcho, of the Ripcho Photography Studio for their wonderful photographic work in the entire yearbook.

The Catholic Universe Bulletin and Mr. Burke Walsh for photographs of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception in Washington, D.C.

Mr. M. Edwards and Edwards Brothers, Inc. of Ann Arbor Michigan for publication of the '60 Review.

Mr. Ralph Benz of the S. K. Smith Company, Cleveland, for the production of the cover of the 1960 Cantian Review.
